Vajrapani is the unification of all the Buddhas' infinite courageous enlightened energy. His wrathful and fearless nature destroys delusion and all the negative forces. He bestows a fearless intuitive power to body, speech and mind. With the force of great compassion, Vajrapani helps us to transform our anger and with his wisdom, he eliminates all obstacles.

Rinpoche will grant the empowerment of Vajrapani on Saturday at 10:00 am. The blessings bestowed to us during the empowerment enable us to identify with Vajrapani's infinite spiritual power. Though the kindness of our spiritual teacher we are inspired with instructions on how to explore this powerful practice.

By identifying with Vajrapani's spiritual strength our own intuitive power begins to manifest. We begin to understand ways to maximize actions of compassion and wisdom. With unobstructed progress along our spiritual path we find ourselves happier and more courageous. Our relationships with family, friends, co-workers and those with whom we find difficulties become easier and happier.

All are welcome. The empowerment may be taken with the intent to practice Vajrapani or it can be taken as a blessing that will enhance wellbeing.

Registration will begin the week of February 1, 2009.

Please check the website for registration and information about the retreat center as well as a schedule and map to the retreat site. You are invited for the full retreat. If your schedule does not allow for the full weekend, you may register solely for the day of the empowerment.
